THE EAGLE AND THE TORTOISE – AN AFRICAN FOLK STORY

There was once an eagle and a tortoise. The eagle lived high in the clouds and the tortoise lived under some rocks. The tortoise was very generous and kind. One day when the tortoise was having lunch with his family, the eagle arrived to visit him. The tortoise and his wife were happy to see the eagle and they gave him food and drink and so the eagle returned again and again to visit them. But each time the eagle left, he said the same thing, “Ha, I can visit the tortoise on the ground, but he can never visit my nest!”

Soon all the animals were talking about the selfish eagle. They decided to help the tortoise and they said, “Next time the eagle visits, offer him a basket of food to take for his wife and children. Then hide in the basket and you will hear how he insults you.”

The tortoise did what the animals suggested. He hid in the basket when the eagle wasn't looking and sure enough, when the eagle was flying home, he repeated his usual insults, “Ha, ha! I can visit the tortoise on the ground but he can never visit my nest in the sky!” When they arrived at the eagle's nest the tortoise got out of the basket. “You have insulted me and my family. Take me home. You are no friend of mine.” “Take you home! I will pick you up and throw you to the ground,” said the eagle.

The tortoise was angry and bit the eagle hard on the leg. “Let go, let go,” said the eagle. “Only after you take me home,” replied the tortoise and he bit the eagle harder. The eagle flew high into the clouds, this way and that, to try to shake the tortoise from his leg but it was impossible, the eagle couldn't shake the tortoise off. The tortoise wouldn't let go. Finally, the eagle took the tortoise home. The tortoise said, “I was kind to you, but you were selfish and did nothing for me and my family. You insulted us. You have lost a friend and I have lost a problem.”
